Edmonton Area Operations

Meet Our Area Manager and Supervisors!

Area Manager

Bob Wachowicz has worked in petrochemical and heavy oil refining environments for over 40 years. He has been employed by Texas Gulf, Eskimo, Methanex (Alberta Gas Chemicals & Novacor) and Shell Canada (Royal Dutch Shell). Bob has gained a strong reputation for reducing costs and improving reliability, operability, and efficiency.

Pumping and Dredging Operations Supervisor

Matthew Davies has worked in the oil & gas, industrial and commercial industry. He has been supervising dewatering projects for the past 5 years. Matthew has worked on several of the world's largest tar sands, refineries, and mining projects of all sizes. Matthew has gained a strong reputation by successfully planning, organizing, and executing refinery projects safely, on time, and on budget.

Pumping and Dredging Operations Supervisor

Justin Lawrenson is a Heavy Equipment and automotive mechanic with 12 plus years of experience. Justin spent 8 years in the Canadian army with 2 tours to Afghanistan as an equipment technician/heavy recovery tech. He started with CPP in August 2013 in the Redwater shop as a floor mechanic, transferred to Fort McMurray in September that year, and ran service trucks for 7 months. He became an operations supervisor in April 2014. Justin moved back to Edmonton where he is the Redwater facility production supervisor.

Pumping and Dredging Operations Supervisor

Chris Wilson has been supervising commercial diving and other marine projects across western Canada for the past 20 years. Chris is a National Energy Board Certified Commercial Diving Supervisor, Commercial Diver, and a Journeyman Welder with extensive fabrication experience. Chris splits his time between crews at the oil sands plants and the refineries and plants that require his team in the Edmonton Area.
